

Public Hearings are virtual AND in-person: what you need to know

As committed advocates, nothing will stop us from making our voices heard on the issues that matter to our communities right now.

Now that the legislature is working both remotely and in-person, we have additional ways to educate legislators about bills that will have big impacts on the lives of low-income people in Maine.

Here's what you need to know to participate in a public hearing of the Maine legislature this year.

The legislative session will likely run from January to June. The Legislature holds public hearings on different bills in the first few months of the session.

What is a public hearing?

A legislative public hearing is a step in the process of a bill becoming a law. Legislative committees are a small group of Maine Senators and Representatives that listens to testimony from both sides of the issue at the public hearing.

Our goal at a public hearing:

- To persuade the committee members to vote in favor of a bill that will have a positive impact or against a bill that will have a harmful impact.
- To make the case for health care, rental assistance, and other economic opportunity programs for all in Maine.
- To ensure racial equity is considered by committee members and prioritized when they make their decision about a bill.
- To counter opponents' arguments against our legislative effort
- To build momentum and public support for our effort. Many public hearings are covered in the media, so this is also a chance to get our message out to the wider public.

Here are the steps to participating in a public hearing:

Step 1: Know your bill

Work with Maine Equal Justice to identify the Legislative Document number (LD#) for the bill you want to follow this legislative session.

Check out Maine Equal Justice's 2023 legislative priorities.

Find any bill on the State Legislature's website.

Click here to download weekly legislative reports, which indicate the bills that are printed each week.

The legislature sometimes works on as many as 2,000 bills in one session!

Step 2: Find out when the public hearing is being held and register as a participant.

Once a bill has been printed, you can use its Legislative Document number or "LD" number to look up its status. When you look up a bill by number on the Maine.gov website, you can find out if the bill has been scheduled for a public hearing. Look up the bill that interests you here

Upcoming public hearings and work sessions here

You can sign up to testify virtually and/or submit your testimony here.

We are all new to a hybrid system (some people are joining from home or work and some people are in-person), including legislators and legislative staff. The committee clerks are working hard to make the process more accessible. Please reach out to Kate Brennan, kbrennan@mejp.org, or Allina Diaz, adiaz@mejp.org, if you are having difficulty finding the right committee or using this system. We can walk you through the process. We will also make sure legislative decision makers hear feedback about how the system is working for people and make needed changes.

Step 3: Who should join a public hearing?

The public is welcome! Help us spread the word about the public hearing to others who care. People whose lives are directly affected by the bill are the most important voices legislators can hear from. It is also important to have family members of those who are impacted weigh in, as well as advocates and allies to help define the problem and solutions needed.

Step 4: Prepare for the hearing

Learn about the committee that will hear the testimony.

It can help to know which legislators are on the committee ahead of time, what districts they represent and what, if anything, we know about them and what they care about. This can help you make a connection with them in your testimony. Going into a public hearing with an understanding of your audience can be helpful to your cause.

It is also good to identify who the committee clerk is and send any questions their way. They are there to connect the committee with constituents. The committee clerk will get you the information you need for the hearing. Their contact information can also be found on the committee page.

Step 5: Testify at the hearing

Public hearings will be held in the committee room, as well as on zoom.

To register and testify virtually: You can register to provide testimony on zoom or via a toll-free phone number here. Once you register, you will receive a zoom link to sign on when the hearing starts. This must be done at least 30 minutes before the hearing starts.

How to join: On the day of the hearing, you will join the webinar as an attendee (with your camera and microphone off). When it is time for you to deliver your testimony, you will be “promoted” by the committee staff who are running the Zoom to a panelist. As a panelist, you will have the ability to turn on your camera and microphone so that you can deliver your testimony.

To register and testify in person in Augusta: Please reach out to Kate Brennan, kbrennan@mejp.org, or Allina Diaz, adiaz@mejp.org, if you would like to testify in person. We can help you find where to go and get signed up for testimony.

For all public hearing participants: The Committee Chairs will start the hearing by introducing the Committee. Legislators who sponsor the bill testify first. Then the public will be invited to testify and testifiers will be announced by name in an order designated by the clerk or committee chairs.

At the hearing, you don't need to read exactly what you write. You will have 3 minutes to speak, but there is no limit on the length of written testimony that you submit. Testimony from the public tends to be one to two pages long. One of the chairs of the committee will watch the time and will ask you to wrap up if you take longer than 3 minutes. You may want to practice reading your testimony out loud and see how long it takes so you know what you can say in 3 minutes.

A note on interpretation: committee chairs will sometimes allow extra time for those testifying with an interpreter. Please let us know if you or someone you are supporting to testify needs extra time. We can help contact the committee chair ahead of time.

Written testimony is still posted through the testimony portal, and legislators will be able to follow along if you have submitted testimony prior to the hearing.

If you need Maine Equal Justice to help you with any part of this process, please let us know!

More information on developing testimony below**

When it is your turn to speak:

When you are invited to speak, make sure you are off mute on your end. To help the Committee focus on your words, try to testify in a spot in your home where you have a reliable internet connection, and as little background noise and visual distraction as possible. You can blur your background to preserve your privacy.

Greet the committee chairs, the committee members and introduce yourself like this:

“Senator _____, Representative _____, and honorable members of the Joint Standing Committee on _____: my name is _____, I live in (town or city) _____ and I am here today to testify in favor of LD _____.”

Then you share your testimony. After you are finished, you can offer to answer questions if you are comfortable. Committee members will have the chance to ask clarifying questions. It is always OK to say you do not know the answer. You can offer to get the committee more information after the hearing. Maine Equal Justice can help you do this.

On the day of the hearing, Maine Equal Justice staff may set up an online chat space so we can communicate throughout the hearing.

Step 6: Submit your testimony if you have not already

Whether you attend the hearing or not, you can submit testimony through the online portal found on the Maine Legislature’s website. When submitted this way, it is automatically distributed to members of the committee via email.

Here's an example of how testimony can be structured:

1. Introduction: “Senator Claxton, Representative Meyer, and honorable members of the Joint Standing Committee on Health and Human Services: my name is _____, I am a resident of _____ and I am here today to testify in favor of _____.”
2. Key messages: Pick one or two -- just one sentence on each.
3. Story: Tell a story that illustrates your main point.
4. Closing: Reinforce your key message (again, just a sentence) and thank the committee.

These are the important things to remember:

1. The best way to get your point across is to share your story. The committee will hear plenty of facts and figures from policy and legal “experts”. We need to show them the human impact of this policy.
2. You have 3 minutes to speak, and the time goes by fast! You really only have time to say your key message and tell a story to illustrate your point.
3. You are making a difference! The legislature must act boldly this year to address economic justice and racial equity in Maine. We have heard from many legislators over the years that people who come to testify have a huge impact on the outcome of legislation. You have a powerful story to share that can support policies that help thousands of Mainers. Your voice matters.

Step 7: After the hearing

Send a thank you email to committee members reinforcing the key points you made in your testimony. Work with Maine Equal Justice staff to follow up with key legislators to make sure there is a strong vote on your bill.
